Natural Burial Ground

Leedam

In the peace of the wild things

Delliefure Natural Burial Ground's beauty is typical of the Strathspey area of the Cairngorms National Park in which it lies.

The sweeping burial ground is flanked on each side by silver birch woodland. At the far end, the glade opens up to reveal the superb river Spey.

Here you may see buzzards wheeling overhead, while ospreys and otters hunt the flowing river, famous for its salmon and sea trout fishing. On land, the lichen-crusting silver birch woodland is an important habitat for deer, red squirrels and pine martens.

It is a place of escape; somewhere quiet to take one step at a time, close to wildlife, with your memories, and view the changes through the seasons.

Helpful information

- The ground can be uneven, so comfortable shoes are best.
- If standing for a long time is difficult, a folding chair can help.
- The weather is part of the experience, please come prepared for it.

If you'd like to know more, our office team is here to answer any questions, or you can visit our website for further details.

Planning ahead

Come and spend some time in the woodland to see if it feels right for you.

We can send you an information pack, or you can download a form from our website.

If you wish, you can choose and secure a plot in advance. This can bring peace of mind, knowing everything is already in place. We can also offer flexible payment options.

Planning a funeral

When the time comes, we'll ask you to share your wishes with us so we can guide you through each step.

You can make the arrangements yourself, or your funeral director can help, whichever feels easier.

Burials usually take place between 10am and 3pm. Weekend times are possible by special arrangement.

Our custodian, Duncan Grant, looks after the burial ground and everyone who has a connection with it.

Duncan would be delighted to meet you there, walk you round, help you decide which area to choose and talk about what others have done that works well. He will also be there on the day of the burial to greet you.

As well as taking on this role, Duncan is, amongst other things, a member of the Board of Trustees for the Grantown Museum and Heritage Trust where he also volunteers on the front desk.

More time and space

An unhurried and private place away from the hustle of daily life. Somewhere to remember, replenish and reflect. A place of peace and solitude, when you need it, and love.

Spend time in nature, experience the weather and watch the seasons change. And for those at rest here, it offers a simple return to nature.

A landscape photograph featuring a wide, grassy field in the foreground. In the middle ground, a dense line of green trees stretches across the frame. The sky is filled with large, grey, overcast clouds, with a small patch of blue sky visible on the left side. The overall mood is somber and reflective.

“A sad occasion became full of love, friendship
and time for reflection”

Make the day your own

The burial ground gives you the freedom to be yourselves. Whether you are planning a simple interment with only a few in attendance or a larger funeral event we will offer inspiration, support and guidance, so you can organise the day exactly as you'd like it.

Flowers

Consider using flowers from your garden, or a friend's, or produce from the veg patch to create a hand-tied bouquet. Ask florists to use these or locally grown flowers. No plastic, Oasis foam or wire, please.

Think about scattering petals from a basket or single stems into the grave.

Pets

Dogs offer comfort and companionship, especially at funerals. Dogs on leads are welcome at the burial ground.

A pet's ashes may be included in its owner's grave at the time of interment.

Memorial plaques

It's important to commemorate the names of the dead and when they lived. Unlike a conventional cemetery, there will not be rows of memorial stones, vases of flowers or mementos placed on each grave.

Instead, inside the burial ground sits a solid chestnut-framed memorial panel where Caithness slate plaques are mounted. Each plaque is inscribed with the name, year of birth and year of death of those buried here. Alternatively, you can purchase the right to place a memorial stone in the woodland. Duncan, the custodian can advise you on the types of stones permitted.

Finding the spot

Graves are carefully mapped and their exact GPS locations and What3Words addresses are recorded and shared with you so that you'll know where to visit.

If you struggle with any of these, don't worry, get in touch with us, and we can arrange to flag the spot for your next visit.
